Happy Earth Week, friends!

This week, we join with colleagues and neighbors from all corners of the UMaine community in celebrating and honoring the planet that has sustained us for thousands of years. It's no secret that human activity, industrialization, and population growth has had a staggering impact on the environment, and this week is a reminder to do what we can to combat the incredibly real threat that is climate change.

Our friends at the Office of Sustainability have organized an impressive list of events folks can and should make time to attend if you are able. Thank you for all the hard work you all put into this week and every other work to make our campus a little greener!

It's also important to remember the unequal effect climate change and environmental strain have on marginalized communities. People of color are more likely to live in areas most impacted by sea level rise, proximity to major sources of water and air pollution, and many of the crises we face today are exacerbated or directly rooted in slavery and the history of racism in America. I think Elizabeth Yeampierre, co-chair of the Climate Justice Alliance, put it best when in a 2020 interview with Yale Environment 360, she said, "I think about people who got the worst food, the worst health care, the worst treatment, and then when freed, were given lands that were eventually surrounded by things like petrochemical industries,"

Restoring the balance of our global environment and climate isn't just a matter of saving endangered species and protecting the ice caps. It is a matter of social justice and one more piece of unraveling the tangled web of inequities and injustices our civilization is built upon. This Earth Week, I ask that you keep our POC, trans, and otherwise marginalized neighbors in mind when you consider the impact you and the companies you patronize have on the environment.

Happy Earth Week!

Our neighbors and elected leaders on Orono town council are seeking input on the best ways to implement policy and structural change to allow for the town to address inequity within town policy and procedure. Our neighbors in Bangor have recently assembled an advisory committee, and town leadership here in Orono would like input on what kind of group or committee might be most helpful in providing feedback and insight from a diversity, equity, and inclusion perspective here in Orono.

If you would like to be part of this conversation (all members of the Orono/University community are welcome, including students, staff, and faculty), please reach out to council member Meg Gardner (mgardner@orono.org) or Staff Associate for Diversity and Inclusion Rob Jackson (robert.jackson@maine.edu) to be included. We welcome all voices with suggestions and input, but want to be particularly mindful to engage with marginalized folks specifically, including BIPOC, immigrants/new Mainers, LGBTQ+ folks, and our neighbors with disabilities.

By taking part in these conversations, you are not bound to any kind of ongoing commitment to this work, and you are free to engage as much or as little as your energy, interest, and comfort will allow. Please feel free to share this call for input with other members of the broader Orono community who may be interested as well!

TRIBAL SOVEREIGNTY, SOCIAL JUSTICE,

AND BUILDING EQUITY FROM A MAINE TRIBAL PERSPECTIVE

TUESDAY, APRIL 27
3:30 P.M. LECTURE | HELD VIA ZOOM | HONORS.UMAINE.EDU/EVENT/REZENDES-2021

Maulian Dana is the Tribal Ambassador for Penobscot Nation. She works to represent the Penobscot Nation and advocates for policy changes at local, state, and federal levels of government. She has an extensive background in activism in ending the use of Indian sports mascots and replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous People's Day, both of which have become Maine state laws. She is the co-chair of the state's Permanent Commission on the Status of Racial, Indigenous and Maine Tribal Populations; co-chair of the Maine Climate Council's Equity Subcommittee; Board President for the Wabanaki Alliance; and serves on many other boards and organizations. She is the proud mother of two daughters.

BLACK STUDENT UNION

EVERY

From our colleagues at the University of Southern Maine:

"We Exist: Evidence of Maine's Black Families from 1800 to the 20th Century"

We are pleased to announce the release of the digital exhibition "We Exist: Evidence of Maine's Black Families from 1800 to the 20th Century" hosted by the USM Digital Commons. The exhibition highlights images from the Gerald E. Talbot Collection, as well as images and oral histories from the African American Collection, part of the Jean Byers Sampson Center for Diversity in Maine, Special Collections, University of Southern Maine.

"We Exist" is the first in a series of six digital exhibitions on Black inhabitants in the state of Maine that seeks to tell their stories through a variety of institutions. This series focuses on the family. The Black family remains a favorite topic across academia and society at large due to the continuing stigmatization of Black families in America. The concept that the Black family functions at a deficit has led in part to the Black family being pushed to the margins of society, and at times being outright omitted from societal history and the historical record. Through photos, written, and audio interviews, "We Exist" transmits the stories of the lived experiences of Maine's Black families.

We hope the digital exhibit transmits to a wide and diverse audience who may not have otherwise engaged with this aspect of Maine's history. Also, we hope the exhibit serves as a guide for other institutions to follow that want to engage in the larger discussion on Black inhabitants relaying their histories through their own voices.

You can access the exhibit by clicking this link or the image above.

The University of Maine presents a new online mental health tool for all students:

SILVERCLOUD

A new online mental health tool is now available for the well-being of the UMaine community, free of charge. SilverCloud is an online platform that is available to all University of Maine System students at no cost. It offers self-guided programs for anxiety, depression, stress, and resilience. Based on cognitive behavioral therapy principles, the self-guided program is available anytime, on any device.

Aimed at providing treatment for mild or moderate issues, SilverCloud allows individuals to confidentially manage symptoms using the program's interactive content and skill-building tools. The website provides an overview of options and a brief quiz to help you find the right program for you to get started. Once you've selected a program, you can explore more topics on the sign-up page.

Please note, this tool is not meant to replicate individual therapy, rather it is designed to be a self-help tool to assist you in learning more about managing your mental health. If you are interested in therapy services, please contact the Counseling Center at 207-581-1392. Remember to take care of yourself and your mental health!

For more information, read about Silvercloud on the Counseling Center's website:

Office of Admissions

5713 Chadbourne Hall
Orono, Maine 04469-5713

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Team Maine

Team Maine - Student Ambassador Position

Job Description

Overview

Team Maine is an integral part of the Office of Admissions at the University of Maine. The mission of our program is to assist new students in their transition to higher education and the University of Maine community. To accomplish this, Team Maine works closely with incoming students and their families through programs that connect them to valuable academic and student services. Some of these programs include: Summer Orientation, Fall Welcome Weekend, Spring Orientation, Admissions Open House, Accepted Student Days, and any Visitor Center and Telecounseling programs.

Team Maine members have a unique opportunity to mentor and interact with new students in their transition to college life. Becoming a Team Maine member is ideal for students who are interested in expanding their leadership experience, building connections with faculty and staff on campus, and participating in developmental programming for new students.

General Responsibilities

- Serve as a positive role model and ambassador of the University of Maine. This involves working closely with a diverse population of students and their families in their transition to the University of Maine community.
- Function as a member of a team-oriented group of students and staff members.
- Assist in the development, implementation, and evaluation of Recruitment events and services.
- Staff Recruitment events as academic schedule permits.
- Perform office tasks such as answering phones, photocopying, data entry, document creation, and other tasks as assigned.

Qualifications

Applicants must:

- Be able to fully commit in all training and new student orientation programs
- Be in good academic and disciplinary standing
- Possess strong interpersonal communication skills

General Responsibilities

Student Programs

- Staff orientation programs: Summer Orientation, Fall Welcome Weekend and Spring Orientation.
- Assist in the development, preparation, implementation, and evaluation of orientation sessions.
- Responsibilities include: lead icebreakers, conduct presentations and group discussions, act in skits, staff information tables, etc.

The Visitor Center

- Welcome prospective students and guests at the Visitor Center.
- Lead regular campus tours (prospective/accepted/transfer students) and school group tours.
- Assist in the operation and maintenance of the Visitor Center.
- Available work hours in the fall and spring semesters vary Monday to Saturday, ranging from 8:00am-4:30pm, with some additional hours and days as needed.

Telecounseling Program

- Call prospective students to assist them in the application and confirmation process.
- Answer questions about the University of Maine and introduce prospective students to the academic and student life of the institution.
- Assist in the operation and maintenance of the Telecounseling Program.

Review of applications will begin immediately
